Introduction

Pursuant to the provisions of the Election Act, the Commission de la représentation électorale submits its report indicating the delimitation of the electoral divisions to the Québec National Assembly.

Part One of this report presents a look back at the work done by the Commission since 1999. It describes the new electoral map and summarizes the changes that have been made to the electoral divisions in the regions of Québec. Finally, the Commission attributes new names to electoral divisions, where applicable, and recalls the steps leading up to the coming into force of this new electoral map.

Part Two stipulates the boundaries of each electoral division. At the end of the document there is a map illustrating the new electoral divisions.

of the electoral divisions of Québec*

1. A look back at the work of the Commission de la représentation électorale

The preparation of a new electoral map takes place in several stages specified in the Election Act. As the work of the Commission de la représentation électorale has spanned a period of close to three years, the Commission believes that it is important to recall each of these stages and to situate them in time.

1.1 Commencement of work

Pursuant to the Election Act, the Commission de la représentation électorale proceeds to delimit the electoral divisions of Québec after the second general election following the last delimitation. As the last electoral map came into force at the time of the dissolution of the National Assembly for the 1994 general election, the Commission began its work following the holding of the November 30, 1998 general election.

In accordance with the Election Act, the Commission was supposed to table in the Québec National Assembly a preliminary report presenting its electoral division delimitation proposal not later than one year after the holding of the general election, namely on November 30, 1999.

1.2 Suspension of work

On June 19, 1999, an Act assented to by the National Assembly (S.Q. 1999, c.15) suspended the Commission's work until June 30, 2000 and consequently, postponed the deadline for tabling the preliminary report to January 1, 2001.

1.3 Resumption of work and tabling of the preliminary report

On July 1, 2000, the Commission resumed its work. On December 14, 2000, it tabled in the National Assembly a preliminary report entitled Proposal for the delimitation of a new electoral map 2000.

In its preliminary report, the Commission proposes changes to 71 of the 125 electoral divisions that cover Québec's territory. The objective of this new delimitation is to ensure a fair distribution of electors. Wherever possible, the boundaries of the electoral divisions are harmonized with the administrative boundaries. The most important changes made by this proposal include the withdrawal of one electoral division in Gaspésie, the addition of one electoral division in Montérégie and the rearrangement of the boundaries of the electoral divisions in the Québec region. As the exact limits of the new cities involved in the municipal reorganization process were not known when the preliminary report was tabled, the Commission was unable to take them into consideration.

1.4 Public hearings

The Election Act stipulates that within six months following the tabling of the preliminary report, the Commission shall hear the representations made by MNAs, and by individuals and organizations interested in the delimitation proposal. Consequently, in March and April 2001, the Commission held public hearings in fifteen cities of Québec.

The commissioners heard 193 stakeholders including 26 MNAs, 44 citizens and 123 representatives of municipalities, regional county municipalities, riding associations, chambers of commerce and social groups. In all, 217 documents were tabled before the Commission. The Commission then proceeded to make an in-depth examination of the content of each of the interventions, which revealed a wealth of information and often contained highly relevant points of view. Two main themes emerged from this analysis.

For Île-de-Montréal, there was a consensus concerning the comments made to the effect that the new delimitation must give priority to the numerical criterion of the Act and hence to the equality of the votes of electors. Moreover, stakeholders of the region of Laval, Montérégie and Laurentides-Lanaudière maintained that the Commission needed to pay special attention to the growth in the electoral population of these regions. For their part, the citizens, representatives of organizations and MNAs of Gaspésie asked the Commission to take into account this region's special situation and to maintain four electoral divisions there to ensure the effective representation of electors.

1.5 Tabling of a second report for the Montréal region

Following the comments made during the public hearings, the Commission de la représentation électorale prepared a new delimitation proposal for the Montréal region. This proposal was the subject of a second report entitled Proposal for the delimitation of a new electoral map 2000 – Montréal Region, made public in June 2001.

The main changes proposed in this second report consist of breaking down the electors of Île-de-Montréal among 27 electoral divisions rather than 30 and establishing three new electoral divisions in the sectors where the average number of electors is high, including one on Île-Jésus, one in Laurentides-Lanaudière and another in Montérégie. This latter addition was already provided for in the preliminary report.

An amendment made to the Election Act in June 2001 allowed the Commission to hold new public hearings to hear the representations of MNAs, citizens and organizations interested in proposals to amend its preliminary report.

As the new delimitation proposal for the Montréal region differs significantly from the first proposal, the Commission wanted to offer interested parties the opportunity to express their views on this new proposal. Consequently, the Commission held three days of public hearings in this region in September 2001.

In all, 50 stakeholders, namely 10 MNAs, 14 citizens and 26 representatives of organizations, expressed their views and made known their recommendations, whereas close to 40 documents were tabled before the Commission. Several stakeholders presented their vision and their understanding of the notion of the effective representation of electors. Some illustrated what they consider to be an established natural community. The fact that the new proposal sets at 27 the number of electoral divisions on Île-de-Montréal sparked heated reactions. Once again, the Commission carefully analyzed each of the representations submitted.

1.6 Parliamentary committee

The preliminary report and every proposal seeking to amend it must be submitted to the consideration of the Committee on the National Assembly. Consequently, on October 3, 2001, some twenty MNAs were able to make their comments and their recommendations concerning the delimitation proposed by the Commission de la représentation électorale in the preliminary report and in the report dealing with the Montréal region.

The main comments heard dealt with the notion of effective representation, the importance of the equality of the votes of electors and the need to respect natural communities. Moreover, several MNAs voiced their concerns about the reduction in the number of electoral divisions on Île-de-Montréal.

1.7 Preparation of a new electoral map

After having analyzed all of the comments received, the Commission de la représentation électorale drew up the boundaries of the electoral divisions, which are the subject of this report.

2. Legal framework

In Québec, it is the Election Act that guides the Commission de la représentation électorale in the carrying out of its mandate to establish the boundaries of the electoral divisions. The electoral divisions must be delimited in such a way as to make sure that the effective representation of electors is ensured. This principle is embodied by the electors' ability to have the best possible access to their elected representatives and by the ability of elected members to adequately assume their twofold role of legislator and ombudsman.

The relative equality of votes of electors is an important prerequisite for effective representation. On this subject, the Act stipulates that the number of electors in an electoral division must not deviate by more than 25% from the average number of electors by electoral division. The total number of electoral divisions must be between 122 and 125.

The following table illustrates the numerical framework of this delimitation. The data used are those of the permanent list of electors as of June 30, 2000<sup>1</sup>.

1. As the work of the Commission de la représentation électorale resumed on July 1, 2000, the number of electors by electoral division was established using the data of the permanent list of electors as of June 30, 2000.

Numerical framework of the new delimitation

Total number of electors according to the permanent list of electors as of June 30, 2000	5, 339,121
Number of electoral divisions	125
Average number of electors by electoral division	42,713
Upper limit (+25%)	53,391
Lower limit (-25%)	32,035

However, the equality of the votes of electors alone cannot guarantee the effective representation of electors. The Act stipulates that the electoral division represents a natural community established on the basis of demographical, geographical and sociological considerations such as the population density, the relative growth rate of the population, the accessibility, area and shape of the region, the natural local boundaries and the territories of local municipalities.

Finally, the Election Act stipulates that the Commission may, for exceptional reasons, depart from the numerical criterion if it considers that the basic principle of effective representation cannot be respected. For each electoral division that involves an exception to the numerical rule, the Commission must justify its decision.

3. Decision of the Commission de la représentation électorale

The new map has 125 electoral divisions. In all, 70 electoral divisions have a different delimitation from that of the previous map, in force since 1994. Among these divisions, 16 have changed solely as the result of annexations or municipal amalgamations. Table 2 lists these divisions.

With a view to ensuring a better balance in the Greater Montréal region, the Commission de la représentation électorale is creating two new electoral divisions, namely one in Montérégie and one in Laurentides-Lanaudière, and is reducing the total number of electoral divisions on Île-de-Montréal from 30 to 28. The Commission is maintaining the number of electoral divisions in Gaspésie. Moreover, major adjustments have been made to the boundaries of the electoral divisions of the regions of Montréal, Québec, Outaouais and Sherbrooke.

The Commission evaluated the possibility of delimiting the electoral divisions by respecting the new limits of the boroughs of the large municipalities ensuing from the amalgamations. Generally, major disparities in the number of electors from one borough to the next prevented the Commission from ensuring such a correspondence. However, when adjustments were possible, the Commission made changes to see to it that the boundaries of the electoral divisions coincide with the limits of the boroughs.

As the preliminary report made no provision for changes to the boundaries of the electoral divisions of the regions of Trois-Rivières and Saguenay and as no representation was made to oppose this decision, the Commission deemed that it was preferable to maintain the boundaries of these electoral divisions.

During the public hearings, several persons asked the Commission to respect the limits of the regional county municipalities (RCM). In some cases, the Commission adjusted the boundaries of electoral divisions to the limits of the RCMs. However, in several places, the size of the RCM did not permit this adjustment.

4. Exceptional electoral divisions

The new electoral map includes two types of electoral divisions that depart from the numerical rule established by the Election Act, namely the one instituted by the legislator and the one established by the Commission de la représentation électorale under the powers conferred on it by section 17 of the Act. The purpose of this chapter is to explain the reasons that led the Commission de la représentation électorale to establish certain electoral divisions that do not respect the numerical framework of the Act.

4.1 Statutory exception: the electoral division of Îles-de-la-Madeleine

As of June 30, 2000, the data of the permanent list of electors indicate that the electoral division of Îles-de-la-Madeleine has 10,272 electors, namely a number that is 76% below the provincial average. However, it is not up to the Commission de la représentation électorale to determine if there must be an exception to the allowed deviation of 25% as section 17 of the Election Act expressly stipulates that the Îles-de-la-Madeleine form an electoral division.

4.2 Exceptional electoral divisions established by the Commission

Electoral division of Ungava

The Commission de la représentation électorale recognizes, as it has done in the past, that the electoral division of Ungava is an exception for the following reasons.

The electoral division of Ungava comprises the entire municipality of Baie-James. It covers a vast territory inhabited by a small population dispersed at several points of unequal importance. Demographic considerations alone would have justified an extension of the electoral division at the expense of Abitibi or Saguenay–Lac-Saint-Jean. Due to the very large distances that must be covered, the absence of road links between municipalities in outlying areas, potential development projects and the possibility of a chain reaction that would greatly affect neighbouring regional fabrics, the Commission has no other option but to maintain the electoral division of Ungava in its current status as an exceptional electoral division.

The four electoral divisions of the Gaspésie region

As of June 30, 2000, the data of the permanent list of electors indicate that the four electoral divisions of the Gaspésie region have a number of electors that is more than 25% below the provincial average. As a result, the Commission de la représentation électorale proposed, in its preliminary report, to reduce the number of electoral divisions in this region to three.

At the time of the public hearings held in this region in March 2001, the population, MNAs, as well as representatives of various organizations demonstrated to the Commission, in unequivocal terms, that the proposed reduction in the number of electoral divisions in Gaspésie compromised the effective representation of the Gaspé population. All of the stakeholders called for the preservation of the four electoral divisions in this region.

After examination and taking the matter under advisement, the Commission has decided to maintain the electoral divisions of Bonaventure, Gaspé, Matane and Matapédia by using the discretionary power provided for under section 17 of the Election Act. The reasons that motivate this decision are basically the same in all four electoral divisions.

The Commission deems that the unusual geography of the Gaspé Peninsula, the low population density, the linear distribution of the population along the coast, in particular for the electoral divisions of Bonaventure, Gaspé and Matane, as well as the distances that must be covered are all factors that compromise the effective representation of the Gaspé population. Indeed, the long distances that must be covered and the transportation infrastructure situation make difficult electors' access to their MNA as well as the access that MNAs have to their constituents. Moreover, it would appear that due to the lack of diversified resources, the limited number of points of public service and the difficulties related to the economic situation, electors, municipalities, and economic, community and other organizations call on their MNAs more often, thereby reducing the possibility for these elected officials to adequately perform their twofold role of legislator and ombudsman. Maintaining the electoral divisions of Bonaventure, Gaspé, Matane and Matapédia ensures a fair representation of the electors of each of the electoral divisions of the Gaspésie.

5. The new boundaries, region by region

This chapter draws a global portrait of the new boundaries of the electoral divisions in the various regions of Québec and presents the changes that have been made in relation to the previous map.

Table 2, found at the end of this chapter, completes the information by indicating the electoral divisions whose boundaries are different solely by reason of annexations and municipal amalgamations. The limits of the municipalities mentioned in this document are those that existed as of September 30, 2001.

5.1 Abitibi-Témiscamingue and Nord du Québec

The new electoral divisions are:
Abitibi-Est, Abitibi-Ouest, Rouyn-Noranda-Témiscamingue and Ungava

The new boundaries of the electoral divisions of the Abitibi-Témiscamingue and Nord du Québec regions do not differ much from those of the previous delimitation. The most important change concerns the localities of Villebois, Val-Paradis and Beaucanton, which are part of the electoral division of Ungava. Moreover, changes have been made to adjust certain boundaries of electoral divisions to the new municipal limits as well as to the administrative boundaries of the Abitibi-Témiscamingue region.

5.2 Bas-Saint-Laurent and Chaudière-Appalaches

The new electoral divisions are:

Bas-Saint-Laurent: Kamouraska-Témiscouata, Rimouski and Rivière-du-Loup

Chaudière-Appalaches: Beauce-Nord, Beauce-Sud, Bellechasse, Chutes-de-la-Chaudière, Frontenac, Lévis, Lotbinière and Montmagny-L'Islet

In the Bas-Saint-Laurent region, the electoral division of Rivière-du-Loup, which has a number of electors that is more than 25% less than the provincial average as of June 30, 2000, has been enlarged and now comprises the entire regional county municipality of Les Basques.

Several electoral divisions of Chaudière-Appalaches have different boundaries to ensure a better balance in the number of electors by electoral division. The Municipalité de Saint-Henri is comprised in the electoral division of Bellechasse. The electoral division of Chutes-de-la-Chaudière no longer includes the Ville de Saint-Romuald, the latter having been incorporated in the electoral division of Lévis. The electoral division of Beauce-Nord comprises the Paroisse de Saint-Lambert-de-Lauzon.

The Paroisse de Plessisville and the Ville de Plessisville are part of the electoral division of Lotbinière. As a result, the latter has a number of electors that respects the numerical criterion established in the Act.

5.3 Estrie and Bois-Francs

The new electoral divisions are:

Arthabaska, Drummond, Johnson, Mégantic-Compton, Nicolet-Yamaska, Orford, Richmond, Saint-François and Sherbrooke

The new boundaries of this region comprise some changes in relation to the previous boundaries. The Ville de Coaticook, which was divided between the electoral divisions of Orford and Mégantic-Compton, is henceforth entirely included in the electoral division of Saint-François. The effect of this change is to lower the number of electors of the electoral division of Orford, which, as of June 30, 2000, had a number of electors in excess of the limit established by the Election Act.

The Municipalité d'Ascot is included in the electoral division of Sherbrooke. This change, while respecting the continuity of the urban fabric, makes it possible to increase the number of electors of the electoral division of Sherbrooke to bring it closer to the provincial average. Moreover, the electoral division of Arthabaska excludes the Paroisse de Plessisville and the Ville de Plessisville. The latter are henceforth part of the electoral division of Lotbinière.

Some adjustments have been made to ensure that the boundaries of the electoral divisions correspond to the new municipal limits as well as to the limits of the boroughs of the Ville de Sherbrooke.

5.4 Gaspésie

The new electoral divisions are:
Bonaventure, Gaspé, Matane and Matapédia

The boundaries of the electoral divisions of this region present a number of changes in relation to the previous boundaries. The former Municipalité de Newport, which was part of the electoral division of Bonaventure, has been incorporated in the electoral division of Gaspé. The latter excludes the Municipalité de Sainte-Madeleine-de-la-Rivière-Madeleine and the Municipalité de Saint-Maxime-du-Mont-Louis as well as the Village de Mont-Saint-Pierre. The electoral division of Matane comprises all of the regional county municipalities of Matane and La Haute-Gaspésie. Similarly, changes have been made to the electoral division of Matapédia so that it includes exclusively the regional county municipalities of La Matapédia and La Mitis.

5.5 Mauricie

The new electoral divisions are:
Champlain, Laviolette, Maskinongé, Saint-Maurice and Trois-Rivières

The new boundaries of the electoral divisions of Mauricie are basically the same as under the previous delimitation. The only changes made seek to adjust the boundaries of some electoral divisions to the region's new municipal limits.

5.6 Montréal region

The new electoral divisions of Île-de-Montréal are:
Acadie, Anjou, Bourassa-Sauvé, Bourget, Crémazie, D’Arcy-McGee, Gouin, Hochelaga-Maisonneuve, Jacques-Cartier, Jeanne-Mance–Viger, LaFontaine,
Laurier-Dorion, Marguerite-Bourgeoys, Marquette, Mercier, Mont-Royal, Nelligan,
Notre-Dame-de-Grâce, Outremont, Pointe-aux-Trembles, Robert-Baldwin, Rosemont, Sainte-Marie–Saint-Jacques, Saint-Henri–Sainte-Anne, Saint-Laurent, Verdun, Viau and Westmount–Saint-Louis

The new delimitation sets at 28 the number of electoral divisions on Île-de-Montréal. The eastern part of the island has two less electoral divisions and for this reason, several electoral divisions of this sector have different boundaries. Moreover, the boundaries of the electoral divisions of Sainte-Marie–Saint-Jacques and Hochelaga-Maisonneuve have been modified to strike a better numerical balance.

Changes have also been made in the western part of the island to ensure that the electoral division of Nelligan complies with the numerical criterion of the Act. Through a ripple effect, the boundaries of the electoral divisions of Jacques-Cartier, Marquette and Marguerite-Bourgeoys have been redefined.

As a general rule, the electoral divisions are delimited in such a way as to respect the region’s natural communities. In all, nine electoral divisions of Île-de-Montréal remain unchanged. Finally, adjustments have been made to some boundaries of electoral divisions to have them coincide with the limits of the boroughs.

The new electoral divisions of Île-Jésus are:
Chomedey, Fabre, Laval-des-Rapides, Mille-Îles and Vimont

As of June 30, 2000, the electoral division of Vimont had a number of electors that was more than 25% greater than the provincial average. With a view to re-establishing the numerical balance, the electoral divisions of Mille-Îles and Laval-des-Rapides comprise a part of the electoral division of Vimont, and the latter includes a portion of the electoral division of Fabre.

The new electoral divisions of Montérégie are:
Beauharnois, Borduas, Brome-Missisquoi, Chambly, Châteauguay, Shefford,
Huntingdon, Iberville, La Pinière, La Prairie, Laporte, Marguerite-D'Youville, Marie-
Victorin, Richelieu, Saint-Hyacinthe, Saint-Jean, Soulanges, Taillon, Vachon, Vaudreuil and Verchères

The electoral divisions of Vaudreuil, Shefford and La Prairie have a number of electors that exceeds the limit set by the Election Act. To rectify this situation, the Commission has made several changes. It has created the electoral division of Soulanges, at the border of the electoral divisions of Beauharnois and Vaudreuil. The Ville de Sainte-Catherine, comprised in the electoral division of La Prairie, has been incorporated in the electoral division of Châteauguay.

In the southeastern part of Montérégie, the Municipalité de Roxton Pond, the Paroisse de Saint-Joachim-de-Shefford as well as the Canton de Sainte-Cécile-de-Milton have been included in the electoral division of Johnson.

The Commission has incorporated the parishes of Saint-Jacques-le-Mineur, Saint-Valentin, Saint-Paul-de-l'Île-aux-Noix as well as the Municipalité de Lacolle in the electoral division of Huntingdon. These changes have made it possible to reduce the number of electors of the electoral division of Saint-Jean.

Finally, the Ville de Farnham is now part of the electoral division of Brome-Missisquoi so that the latter includes the entire RCM of Brome-Missisquoi. Some boundaries of electoral divisions have been adjusted to the new municipal limits.

The new electoral divisions of Laurentides-Lanaudière are:
Argenteuil, Berthier, Bertrand, Blainville, Deux-Montagnes, Groulx, Joliette, Labelle, L'Assomption, Masson, Mirabel, Prévost, Rousseau and Terrebonne

As of June 30, 2000, the electoral division of Deux-Montagnes had a number of electors that exceeded the limit allowed under the Election Act whereas the electoral division of Argenteuil had a relatively high number of electors. To reduce the number of electors of these electoral divisions, the Commission is creating the new electoral division of Mirabel. The latter is made up of the Ville de Mirabel and the Ville de Sainte-Marthe-sur-le-Lac, the municipalities of Saint-Placide, Oka, Saint-Joseph-du-Lac and Pointe-Calumet as well as the Indian settlement of Kanesatake. Moreover, the Municipalité de Huberdeau is now part of the electoral division of Labelle.

Finally, changes have been made to the boundaries of some electoral divisions to make sure that they correspond to the administrative boundaries in the northern part of the region as well as to the new municipal limits.

5.7 Outaouais region

The new electoral divisions are:
Chapleau, Gatineau, Hull, Papineau and Pontiac

As of June 30, 2000, the electoral division of Chapleau had a number of electors that was more than 25% greater than the provincial average. To correct this situation and to ensure a better balance in the number of electors by electoral division in this region, the electoral divisions of Chapleau, Papineau and Gatineau have different boundaries.

The electoral division of Gatineau now comprises all the parts of the Ville de Gatineau located to the west and north of the autoroute de l'Outaouais (50). As for the electoral division of Papineau, it comprises the eastern tip of the Ville de Gatineau, between the autoroute 50 and the rivière des Outaouais.

Alley-et-Cawood united townships have been incorporated in the electoral division of Pontiac in order to include the entire RCM of Pontiac. Changes have also been made to the electoral map to ensure that the boundaries of some electoral divisions correspond to the administrative boundaries in the northern part of the region.

5.8 Québec region

The new electoral divisions are:
Charlesbourg, Charlevoix, Chauveau, Jean-Talon, La Peltrie, Limoilou-Giffard, Louis-Hébert, Montmorency, Portneuf, Taschereau and Vanier

Several electoral divisions of the Québec region have new boundaries. Changes have been made with a view to achieving a better balance between the number of electors of the electoral divisions of the downtown area and that of the electoral divisions located in the suburbs. Moreover, some boundaries of electoral divisions have been harmonized with the limits of the boroughs.

The electoral division of Taschereau incorporates a part of the quartier Limoilou located north of the rivière Saint-Charles. The electoral division of Limoilou-Giffard comprises a larger portion of the Ville de Beauport. The electoral division of Jean-Talon comprises the Ville de Sillery and the campus of Université Laval. The electoral division of Louis-Hébert includes the Ville de Cap-Rouge and a part of the Ville de Sainte-Foy. The electoral division of Vanier has been expanded westward, and the electoral division of La Peltrie comprises the Ville de Val-Bélair.

To ensure that the regional county municipality of Charlevoix-Est is included in one and the same electoral division, the unorganized territory of Sagard is part of the electoral division of Charlevoix.

5.9 Saguenay–Lac-Saint-Jean and Côte-Nord

The new electoral divisions are:

Saguenay–Lac-Saint-Jean: Chicoutimi, Dubuc, Jonquière, Lac-Saint-Jean and Roberval

Côte-Nord: Duplessis and Manicouagan

The new boundaries for these regions correspond to the previous ones. The only change made consists of the inclusion of the unorganized territory of Sagard, which was part of the electoral division of Dubuc, in the new electoral division of Charlevoix.

6. New toponyms

The changes made to the boundaries of the electoral divisions have led the Commission de la représentation électorale to attribute new names to certain electoral divisions after having requested the advice of the Commission de toponymie. Here is the list of these new toponyms and a brief description of their origin.

The electoral division of Beauharnois

This toponym, used since 1829 to name electoral divisions, originates from the patronymic name of the concession-holders of the seigniorship bearing the same name, Charles de Beauharnois (1671-1749), who was Governor of New France, and his brother Claude (1674-1738). Moreover, the Ville de Beauharnois, created in 1863, is part of this electoral division.

The electoral division of Bourassa-Sauvé

This new electoral division covers a portion of the northeastern part of Île-de-Montréal and groups the existing electoral divisions of Bourassa and Sauvé.

The Bourassa patronymic name makes reference to Henri Bourassa (1868-1952), journalist, politician and founder of Le Devoir in 1910. As for the Sauvé name, it refers to Paul Sauvé (1907-1960) who was a lawyer, politician and Premier of Québec (1959-1960).

The electoral division of Huntingdon

Attributed for the first time in 1792 to an electoral division that covered the entire southwest portion of the province, the name Huntingdon traces its origin back to the toponymy of England where this name once identified a county.

This new electoral division covers part of southern Québec, to the west of the rivière Richelieu and comprises, among other things, the Ville de Huntingdon.

The electoral division of Jeanne-Mance–Viger

The new electoral division of Jeanne-Mance–Viger is located on Île-de-Montréal. The combination of the two names recalls the electoral divisions of Jeanne-Mance and Viger.

The first part of this toponym honours the memory of Jeanne Mance (1606-1673), founder of Hôtel-Dieu de Montréal. As for the second part, it refers to Denis-Benjamin Viger (1774-1861), lawyer and MNA, as well as to Jacques Viger (1787-1858), officer, journalist and magistrate who was the first mayor of Montréal (1833-1836), President of the Société Saint-Jean-Baptiste (1856) and founder of the Société historique de Montréal.

The electoral division of Limoilou-Giffard

This electoral division is made up of part of the quartier Limoilou of the Ville de Québec and part of the Ville de Beauport.

The toponym Limoilou is a distortion of Limoëlou or Lymouellou, which corresponds to the name given to a manor that Jacques Cartier owned in Brittany. That of Giffard makes reference to Robert Giffard, first lord colonizer of New France and physician at Hôtel-Dieu de Québec.

The electoral division of Manicouagan

This new toponym replaces the name of the electoral division of Saguenay. This name, which was proposed by stakeholders, corresponds more to the history and geography of this territory. The rivière Manicouagan, which is located at the heart of this electoral division, was made famous by the construction of hydroelectric dams, including that of Manic 5.

The electoral division of Mirabel

The name of this new electoral division makes reference to the name of the Ville de Mirabel, which was created in 1971. This municipality covers approximately 80% of the surface area of the new electoral division.

The electoral division of Soulanges

It was in 1853 that an electoral division of Montérégie was given the name of Soulanges for the first time. This name refers to Pierre-Jacques Joybert de Soulanges who, in 1702, gave the name of Soulanges to his seigniory.

7. Coming into force of the new electoral map

The new delimitation of the electoral divisions of Québec shall, within five days of its tabling, be the subject of a debate limited to five hours in the National Assembly. However, if the National Assembly is not sitting, the debate shall take place in the Committee on the National Assembly, within ten days from the tabling of the report.

Not later than the tenth day following the debate, the Commission de la représentation électorale shall establish the boundaries of the electoral divisions and assign names to them. It shall then publish in the Gazette officielle du Québec the name and boundaries of the 125 electoral divisions and shall draw up a map illustrating these electoral divisions.

The new electoral map comes into force upon the dissolution of the National Assembly. However, if the dissolution occurs before the expiry of three months from publication in the Gazette officielle du Québec, the general election will be held according to the previous delimitation.

The Commission de la représentation électorale will take the necessary steps to ensure the best possible diffusion among the public of the new boundaries of the electoral divisions.

Conclusion

The mandate of the Commission de la représentation électorale is to establish the delimitation of the electoral divisions of Québec taking into account the representation principles and criteria set out in the Election Act. Since its creation in 1979, the Commission has drawn up five electoral maps. During each of these reforms, the Commission has endeavored to meet the objectives of the Act while taking into consideration the comments made by MNAs, citizens and representatives of various organizations.

This reform of the electoral map has given rise to extensive analysis work and broad consultations. The ensuing new delimitation of the electoral divisions reduces the inequalities between the number of electors per electoral division in relation to the electoral map currently in force and responds, in many respects, to the requests made by the individuals and organizations that expressed their views during the public consultations.

However, the Commission believes that it is appropriate to share the observations that it has accumulated over the years and, in particular, during the recent public hearings, regarding the problems ensuing from the evolution of the electoral population on Québec's territory. The data on the number of electors indicate that for the last 25 years the proportion of the electoral population of the Gaspésie, Îles-de-la-Madeleine, Bas-Saint-Laurent, Saguenay–Lac-Saint-Jean, Abitibi-Témiscamingue, Côte-Nord and Nord-du-Québec regions as well as that of downtown Québec and downtown Montréal have been declining steadily. As for the suburbs of Montréal and Québec, they have seen their share of electors grow considerably.

The uneven evolution of the electoral population in the various regions of Québec has major effects on the electoral map as it leads to major imbalances in the number of electors between electoral divisions. Up to the reform of the electoral map of 1990, the increase in the total number of electoral divisions allowed the Commission to draw up electoral maps (1980, 1985, 1988) that reduced the imbalances in the number of electors per electoral division by increasing the number of electoral divisions of the regions experiencing strong growth while keeping intact the number of electoral divisions in remote regions. The upper limit of 125 electoral divisions in Québec was reached in 1988. Since then, the citizens of the regions that have witnessed a decline in their electoral population have feared losing a representative in the National Assembly whenever the electoral map is re-drawn. This fear produced heated reactions following the tabling of the preliminary report in 1990 and occupied an important place in the public consultations held in March, April and September 2001.

The Commission must establish the delimitation of the electoral divisions by making sure that the principle of the effective representation of electors is respected. However, opinions differ as to the interpretation that should be given to this principle. For some, effective representation is defined more by the equality of the votes of electors. Others give priority to elements such as the surface area of the region, the dispersion of the population over the territory, cultural communities, the feeling of belonging as well as the social, economic, geographical, and demographical characteristics of the population. Several persons have underscored the need, for MNAs, to be able to adequately perform their twofold role of legislator and ombudsman by emphasizing access to these officials.

Generally, the citizens of the main urban regions want a representation that is proportional to their demographic weight whereas the citizens of remote regions want to retain their electoral divisions despite the relative decline in their electoral population.

The latter believe that the Commission must pay special attention to their region given the unusual geography, the long distances that must be covered to meet their MNA, the lack of diversified resources, economic difficulties, the demographic deficit of their area, and the resulting heavier burden imposed on their elected representatives.

Within such a context, the preparation of an electoral map represents a major challenge. Although the Commission de la représentation électorale considers that it is still possible to draw up an electoral map while respecting the current legislative framework, it believes, in light of past and recent experience, that the carrying out of its mandate will give rise to increasingly strong and contradictory reactions in the future. It is logical to think that exceptions to the numerical criterion, which are warranted by the application of the principle of effective representation in each of the four electoral divisions of the Gaspésie, may eventually be found in other regions with a low population density. Moreover, citizens, particularly in regions with a high population density, will continue to give priority to the equality of the number of electors by electoral division over other criteria.

For these reasons, the Commission de la représentation électorale believes that it is necessary to initiate a reflection making it possible to better understand the various aspects of the question and to find means so that the citizens of all regions of Québec feel that they are represented fairly.

*Description of the 125
new electoral divisions*

The new electoral divisions are described and listed in alphabetical order. The figures found in the description represent the electors who appear on the permanent list of electors of Québec as of June 30, 2000.

The municipalities, Indian reserves and establishments, reserved lands, unorganized territories and their boundaries are those that existed on September 30, 2001.

Where the words allée, autoroute, avenue, boulevard, chemin, côte, rue, pont, voie, canal, lac, fleuve and rivière, in French and avenue, canal, way and railway line, in English are used, they refer to the median line unless provided otherwise.

At the end of the report readers will find a map of the new electoral divisions and the changes made in relation to existing boundaries. All of the divisions are represented on the front of this map, whereas enlargements of the Montréal, Québec, Sherbrooke, Gatineau and Centre-sud sectors are found on the back.
